

We hope you enjoy using these colouring in sheets to facilitate discussion with your pupils about sustainable and active travel. You may wish to use these for a simple colouring-in activity, however you may wish to develop lessons around them depending on the age and ability of your class. Here are some suggestions that may prompt your own ideas.

Bus

How can you tell what bus is available at each stop? How can you find out where the bus goes and what time the bus will arrive? How can you keep safe whilst waiting for the bus? How do you tell the bus driver that you want his bus to stop for you to get on? Where is the safest place for you to sit on the bus? What is good behaviour on the bus? What shouldn't we do when we're on the bus and why? How do we tell the bus driver that we want to get off the bus?

Bicycle

Why is cycling good for you? What do you like about cycling? How do you keep safe when you are on your bike? What colour clothing should you wear and why? Why is cycling better for the environment than using a car?

Metro

Where does the Metro travel between in the West Midlands? Where does the Metro get its power from? Why do you need to be extra careful when you cross the Metro tracks? How is the Metro different to a train? Do you have to tell the Metro driver that you want them to stop for you to get on or when you want to get off? How do you buy a ticket for the tram? What is good behaviour on the tram and what shouldn't we do on the tram?

Train

What are the two different ways trains get their power? What is the yellow line on the platforms at train stations for? How do we get the train to stop for us to get on or off? How do we find out what train when the next train is due? How do you buy a ticket for the train? What is good behaviour on the train and what shouldn't we do on the train? What should you do if you want to get a train travelling the other direction? What are the differences between the train and the tram?

Walking

What is the Green Cross Code? What is good about walking? What are the names of different safe places for us to cross the road? How can we keep safe when we are walking? What are your favourite things about walking?
